INTRODUCTION

Since its inception in 1968, the Vrindaban Research Institute has made some notable progress towards the achievement of the two main aims—Samskṛtisaṃrakṣaṇa and Jñānasamvardhana : in this case, the preservation of the cultural heritage of Vaishnavism in North India and the diffusion of knowledge about Indian society in the post-mediaeval period.

Timely support, when the Institute was struggling ^{for} its very existence, came from the Ministry of Education and Social Welfare (Government of India), the Department of Cultural Affairs (Government of Uttar Pradesh), and the University of Agra. An International Association of the Vrindaban Research Institute was formed in London in 1973, and through the efforts of its members, academic links have been established with the School of Oriental and African Studies (University of London), the British Library, and the India Office Library and Records.

Between 1975 & 1978, a special project brought scholars and archivists to Vrindaban to enable them to make their contribution to the preservation and study of the Institute's rich holdings in respect of documents and manuscripts. In this way a considerable part of the the Institute's first aim was realized : of some 20,000 manuscripts acquired, nearly a quarter have been fully fumigated, repaired and stored according to the most modern scientific techniques available in India and Europe.

The second, but equally important objective has been met to the extent that catalogues of approximately one half of the material will have been published by 1979. A third part of the Catalogue of Sanskrit Manuscripts is in preparation. The companion volume, A catalogue of Bengali manuscripts in the Vrindaban Research Institute, compiled by Dr. Tarapada Mukherjee, and published in London by School of Oriental and African studies; and the present Catalogue of the Hindi Manuscripts will further ensure that, in little more than a decade since the first donations of manuscripts, scholars may enjoy access to a collection of Vaishnava Bhakti literature that is without parallel in North India. A Journal of the Vrindaban Research Institute and the Association's IAVRI Bulletin have kept the progress of work and discovery before the eyes of the general public. Lectures, symposia, shows of film and slides, and exhibitions have been held from time to time at various centres of learning in U. P. The Institute has been recognized as a research centre for Ph. D. by the University of Agra, and a postgraduate course in manuscriptology has also been planned.

The procedure followed in this catalogue is adopted from the Institute's Catalogue of Sanskrit Manuscripts (Pt. I and Pt. II). Manuscripts, 1500 in number, are classified under nineteen headings. The particulars of each manuscript are given in eleven columns as follows :

1. Serial number
2. Accession number
3. Title
4. Author
5. Commentator
6. Material
7. Script

[IX]

8. Size in centimetres
Number of folios
Lines per page
Letters per line
9. Extent of manuscript
10. Condition and age
11. Additional particulars

In the indexes (titles; authors and commentators; scribes; place names dates; donors) which follow the Table of Contents, references are to serial numbers rather than to page numbers.

In the preparation of this catalogue we were greatly assisted by staff of the Institute, particularly by the librarian Shri G.C. Ghosh, Shri V. B. Gosvami, Dr. R. D. Maiduly and Smt. Vani Mazumbara. Sincere thanks are also due to Professor J. C. Wright, Vice-President of the International Association of the Vrindaban Research Institute, for his valuable suggestions and guidance; to the Ministry of Education Social Welfare, Government of India, for their generous grant towards the publication of the catalogue; to the Ratana Press, Vrindaban, for their full co-operation; and to all those who have donated their precious manuscript collections to the Institute for the use of the nation and the world at large.
